

When Lance is commissioned by the Queen to sculpt the most beautiful statue he can imagine for the King's birthday celebration, he believes all his dreams have come true. However, his joy soon turns to apprehension when his days become threatened by a very determined enemy, and his nights become haunted by a seductive spirit that he believes is the Mistress of the castle. The Mistress is the spirit known throughout the land to lure men off the cliffs to their death. Bodies begin to appear on the coastline and Lance's fears intensify as he's forced to confront the fact that the Mistress is much more than just a mere myth.
